The Scarlet lacrosse men came out of the background a week ago to down the crack St. Lawrence team 3-2 on Memorial Field, Poughkeepsie.

Predictions were strong that the Annandale men would barely eke out a victory; others gave no hope at all. This certainly looked true at the end of the first half so far as the score was concerned. St. Lawrence 1, St. Stephen’s 0. So far as stick work and passing went the Saints far out-shone their rivals and throughout the first half the ball remained around the St. Lawrence goal—attempt after attempt being made to force the pellet in. At half time the local roosters had taken courage and believed that there would be a fight—as the scarlet had promised.

With the whistle at the second half Kunkel tore across in front of the goal and let go with a backswing, recording St. Stephen’s first goal. Immediately following this Len Smith put St. Lawrence ahead another point by drawing the ball around Zillah and shooting through the Saints’ goal.

The whistle was blown, the points chalked up—this Millington scored Hague, who amidst a blocked goal after a thrill—of twenty feet from the goal scored, though the net was securely blocked.

The crowd went wild with enthusiasm at this lead to raise the total, but without success.

Dr. J. E. Harry lectures to student body

On Monday evening, May 9, Joseph E. Harry, Ph.D., Associate Professor of Classics, gave an illustrated lecture on “Glimpses of Greece,” in the Memorial Gymnasium. In the few moments at his disposal Dr. Harry took us over many places on that historic peninsula made famous in myth, legend and history. The vivid description and detailed account of these places made from his vast store of knowledge, the product of many years of travel and research made his talk most interesting and profitable.

He concluded his lecture with a reading from the Agamemnon of Aeschylus in his own translation, and made real for us the people whose environment he had just described to us.

On Wednesday evening, May 11, Doctor Harry spoke before the High Club of Kingston at a dinner given in the Kingston Y. M. C. A. The subject was the value of the classics in a college education.

On Wednesday, May 24, he will speak in the High School at Elizabethtown, N. J., on the educational policy of St. Stephen’s in general and its attitude towards the teaching of classics in particular.

Judges' and subject to the rules of the contest. However, a major rule to the contest was violated when the Senior entrant revealed the story of a manuscript. Consequently, the judges gave the speech fourth place in delivery, and they and the President subsequently unanimously that the irregular performance was not an eligible nor appropriate attempt for the prize.

Had the speech in question been submitted and delivered without manuscript, according to the accepted standards of public speaking, there is a high degree of probability that the McVicker would have been awarded.

EDWARD VOORIES,
Chairman.

Jaycee Racquetees Bow to Cadets

The Junior Varsity tennis team was again humbled before a "preppy" combination here May 12. It went down under the playing of a superior team from New York Military Academy. The cadets, of course, had enviable reputation, having lost only once on their regular schedule, that to All-Hajow's School, New York City, downing C. C. of N. Y. and losing in a specially arranged match 7-2 to the West Point Varsity.

As far as the singles were concerned Gellert and Murak displayed the only real tennis. Number one man, could not cope with Mutnick's cutting game nor well placed returns, although the Saint excelled in form. Lopes, a Cuban and a novice at the sport, this being his second year, played nearly as well as Mutnick and easily ousting Rapolo by playing the base line continuously. Beckman found more difficulty with Dillon but vanished in the return and Hawkins easy, yet the scarlet player made many clever pick-ups which baffled his rival.

New York Military took all the singles and obviously meant to make a clean sweep in the doubles which they accomplished, but with some difficulty. The Gellert, Rapolo vs. Mutnick, Lopes combination displayed the finest tennis of the day. The first set went easily at 6-0, yet the first game of the second set went double four times. The Saints stung a terrific rally, but failed in their returns. A weak point.

Embellish in the double seconds went into the limelight with some well directed shots to the line which were effective. The second set stood a point, then 6-6. New York rallied with two games and closed the match out with a 6-0 victory.

The Varsity tennis team went down from their slump and gave the opposition a stiff run in several of the sets.

In the doubles, Longacre and Mapes (Wesleyan) defeated Lemley and Brunot 6-4; 6-2. Fairchilds and Longacre defeated McKean and Faerber 6-4; 6-2.

In the second match of the eastern trip, the score indicated a slight improvement for the scarlet team. The Springfield tennis players put a squad of finished tennis players on the courts and slipped over a 6-1 victory. In these matches the St. Stephen's Varsity showed signs of recovery from their slump and gave the opponents a stiff run in several of the sets.
