Bernard Lee Bell Dies Suddenly

Brief Illness Fatal To Son Of Warden And Mrs. Bell

After an illness of about a week, Bernard Lee Bell, the only son of Warden and Mrs. Bell, died early on the morning of December 2nd.

The funeral services were held on Wednesday morning, December third, in the Chapel of the Holy Innocents. Fr. Herbert Hawkins, O. H. C., officiated. Committal services were read by Dr. Kenneth O. Crosby, chaplain of the college, at the grave. Interment was in the cemetery immediately adjacent to the college campus.

College Financial Condition Critical

Warden Issues Optimistic Statement Concerning Situation

"The financial difficulty of the College at present is due to a combination of bad times and an unfortunate postponement, on the part of the directors' board of trustees, of raising endowment funds. The College has lived by begging its way for the past ten years, putting off its endeavor to secure endowment until a more convenient season. For years the Warden with insistent voice has been stressing the necessity of immediate and adequate endowment, and since the Columbia integration, Dr. Butler has also been thus insisting. But as long as gifts came in fairly well for current support and as long as the banks were gracious in granting temporary loans, it was hard to get any real effort seriously undertaken. Begging one's way is all right until hard times come. Hard times are here.

"That is the whole trouble. We (Continued on page 4 col. 2)

Hoopsters Show Mettle On Court

Wins Over Cathedral, Loses To Arnold And R. P. I.

The St. Stephen's basketball season opened on Wednesday night, December 3rd, with a closely run game against Arnold College. Although the game was played on the home court, the men showed a lack of speed which is a characteristic of the first game.

For the major part of the first half, the Arnold men had the ball, but their shooting was very poor and the superior aim of the home team proved a saving grace. After many wide tries for baskets the efforts of Arnold to roll up a large score seemed futile.

The St. Stephen's defense showed up very well against the helter-skelter offense of Arnold. The opposite became true when Arnold put in its second team. St. Stephen's then began a more aggressive offense, but their new opponents had evidently been trained for a defensive relief team.

In the last five minutes of play, St. Stephen's showed superior passing precision and teamwork, but the time was against them and the game ended with the score: Arnold 35; St. Stephen's 29.

In the game of Dec. 6, St. Stephen's was outplayed by R. P. I. with a score of 35-15. We regret that this game could not have been played at a later date, as the constant improvement of the team proves that they would have made even a better showing than last year's game in February. St. Stephen's fought hard in the first half which ended with the score of R. P. I. 13; S. S. C. 8, but the superior weight and guarding of their opponents told on them in the second half.

The superiority and improvement of the St. Stephen's team was shown by their victory over Cathedral College on Dec. 10. In the first five minutes to play our men lacked passing precision, but Wood- (Continued on page 4 col. 4)

Hockey Candidates Begin Practice

Cold Weather Permits Early Preliminary Workout

The hockey sextet of St. Stephen's officially reported for practice under the direction of Coach Phalen, the Monday following the Thanksgiving holidays. Previous to this time, a number of the otherwise unengaged hockey aspirants had had some practice shooting goals "a la plank". This practice is not only important in giving the player an opportunity to develop his shots, but also provides a fine work-out for the goalies.

Last year's hockey season was a successful one, its defeat at the hands of Hamilton and Army being well recompensed by its victories over Connecticut Agricultural College, the Poughkeepsie Flashes, Colgate, and the Poughkeepsie Athletic Club. Last year K. Smith and L. Smith, captain, starred for the Scarlet sextet, the former having the highest individual score. The team will lack the dashing work of K. Smith, the dependable defense work of last year's captain, and also the services of a most promising right wing, Wing Pepper who transferred to the U. of Pennsylvania.

During the recent cold snap, the team went into practice on a neighboring pond, pending the flooding of the rink. The rink should be in much better condition this year than last. Embankments have been fixed so that more water can be retained within the rink-boards—where it is needed—and six flood lights have been installed to facilitate the cleaning off of snow, flooding, or night skating.

The comparatively early cold weather is making it possible for the team to enjoy a period of training longer, by nearly a month, than in previous years. With such preliminary training it should be well prepared to take up the by no means light schedule—in fact—the heaviest undertaken in its 3 years of intercollegiate competition. The schedule for this winter follows:

Jan. Sat. 10—R. P. I.	Away
Wed. 14—St. Lawrence	Home
Thurs. 15—Mass. Aggies	Home
Sat. 17—Conn Aggies	Home
Fri. 30—University of Vermont	Away

Festivities Are Most Colorful Of St. Stephen's Traditions

Notice

Word has just recently been received from the New York Central Railroad that Train No. 31, leaving Grand Central Terminal in New York on the evening of January 4th, 1931, will stop at Barrytown to accommodate the students returning from the Christmas recess. The train leaves New York at 8:00 P. M. and arrives at Barrytown at 10:42 P. M.

It will be to our interest that as many as possible use the above train so that it will be possible to stop future trains for our convenience.

Hamilton Victory Ends Soccer Season

Good Elected Captain For Next Year

Our 1930 soccer season ended on Saturday Nov. 8th when the team, playing the best soccer ever seen on this campus since the sport was introduced here, won from Hamilton by the score of 6 to 4. The fighting spirit and punch which makes any sport great fun for both the players and the spectators was certainly exhibited in this game and has been characteristic of the team throughout the season. The team surely deserves a big hand; and we must not forget that the work and discipline instituted by Coach Banks had much to do with the unusual success of the team.

It would be almost impossible to pick the outstanding players on the team without naming the whole varsity squad; for it was essentially a team and not three or four outstanding players. The letter-men are as follows; Captain (Continued on page 4 col. 2)

Basketball Game With Hamilton To Follow Banquet

In accordance with the customs of the college, Thursday evening will witness the annual campus celebration of the spirit of Christmas. By way of forecast, it might be mentioned that the usual keen anticipation and enjoyment of this affair will be accentuated this year by the appearance of an additional event on the program.

The celebration will commence in the evening with the annual Christmas Carol service at the chapel at six thirty. As we mention the word "annual" here the older ones of us can not refrain from conveying our congratulations to the new men of the college. They are about to enjoy that which we consider a very enviable opportunity; namely, of continuing to participate in an event, the memories of which which will always be esteemed by most of us as some of the fondest and most beautiful of our accumulated memories.

At seven o'clock the college will go to Preston where the college has been given the honor of playing the Boar's Head Dinner. This is the introduction of the "pig's assistance" when the hog's head is borne into the hall with ennobling ceremonies of Latin form and English flavor. It is also our opportunity to have in our midst at this time nostros professores et doctores eruditissimos. Aye, they are hopelessly and helplessly in our midst, if appearances are any indication, whatsoever, of the fact. Visualize the pathos of it all for yourselves as you contemplate a situation in which you see these above mentioned individuals clustered at one remote end of the dining hall. Alas for a diaz! Here they are ruthlessly stripped or deprived of the benevolent protection and shelter of any hospitable nook (Continued on page 4 col. 3)

Plays Of Interest To Be Seen In New York During Christmas Holiday Season

For those students of the college who are interested in seeing as many good plays as possible over the Christmas vacation, the following short review of the best shows in New York has been prepared.

Among the good plays of last year that are still appearing on Broadway are: "The Green Pastures" by Marc Connelly. This is the negroes' naive account of the Old Testament, but is by far the most unusual and interesting play on Broadway at present. Then there is "Lysistrata," Aristophanes' play which is a delicate example of Greek humor. In the cast are Blanche Yurka and Ernest Truex.

Jane Cowl again delights with two productions. First we have her excellent production of Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night". In direct contrast to this, Miss Cowl is also playing "Art and Mr. Bottle". This is a very amusing comedy about a mother who, after twenty years' (Continued on page 4 col. 4) absence returns to find her children suffering from Art and Love. Needless to say, she sets them right. Eva La Galliene has also added a new play to her repertoire. It is called "Stiegfried" and is from the French of Jean Giraudoux, with Ben Ami as its star. It is a war study, but nevertheless has an unusual twist in the plot.

The Theatre Guild offers Max Anderson's colorful and well written play concerning the adventures of Elizabeth and Essex. Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt are the stars. Miss Fontanne is magnificent as Queen Elizabeth.

"Roar China", the other Theatre Guild production is most interesting because of its stage settings. The stage has been turned into an immense tank to represent the bank of a large river in China. Gunboats and sampans float on the water. The purpose of all this scenery is to show just how down-trodden the Chinese really can be. (Continued on page 4 col. 4)

Hudson Surpasses Connecticut As Most Educated River In World

"Connecticut is Most Educated River on Earth; Surpasses Charles and Thames" is the headline over an item in a recent issue of the Wesleyan Argus. The substance of the article is quoted from the Boston Transcript and is, in the main, a listing of the various institutions of learning which decorate the banks of the Connecticut or are located in towns on its shores.

"Ye ed" has asked us to do something similar for the Hudson. It seems to us a rather useless exercise, but we're to be outdone in uselessness no more than in anything else, so here goes for "the glorious Hudson, with its banks so green". (In spite of all the education, the banks remain green).

Let's start at the mouth and come up. There's no point in starting at the source because we don't know where it is. So, starting in New York City, we have the following; N. Y. U., Columbia, C. C. N. Y., Fordham, and Manhattan. On the other side, in Hoboken, we find Stevens Tech. (You're liable to find almost anything in Hoboken.) Between New York and West Point there are any number of girls' schools, seminaries, prep schools and what have you. We won't try to put them all down because someone would be sure to tell us that we'd forgotten one. At West Point is the U. S. Military Academy. In Poughkeepsie is Vassar (Tel Poughkeepsie 2800). From Vassar we come to Annandale and St. Stephen's (what could be more natural). Finally, we arrive at Troy and R. P. I., and across the river, in Albany is Albany State Teachers' College. We don't know much about the Hudson River above Albany, but we know Skidmore is up there somewhere, so we'll put it down tentatively.

More than sixty colleges and universities in this country have courses in aviation this year and have a total enrollment of 2,406 students.

At this, its first opportunity, the Lyre Tree wishes to express its sincere condolence to Dr. and Mrs. Bernard Iddings Bell in their recent bereavement. The Lyre Tree Board is confident that in this expression of its sympathy it reflects the feelings of the entire student body.

Editor's Lament

"It has come to that time in the year when all good editors cast about them in a vain hope of finding something worth while to editorialize about. We have come to the point where we are about to throw up our hands in despair. Our job is to write editorials—no! our job is to think of things to write editorials about. Of course, really constructive editorials are out of the question, because somebody might not like them. Pointless editorials (like this one) are equally frowned upon. We are faced with a dilemma, so to speak. We have only one course to pursue: We should write just what everybody will be sure to agree with, just what everybody thinks is so and knows all about. That would surely please everyone and do no one any particular harm. But we really can't be as meek as all that." (—Wesleyan Argus.)

There are several things we should like to speak about just in passing. We really aren't up to giving a whole column over to any one thing this evening. In the first place, there is the matter of trying to improve the beauty of the campus. There are a few sore spots that stick out particularly; the old frame buildings near the gym, the general landscape about the hockey rink, and the annual pile of ashes to the north of the library are the chief instances. Though one or two more might be added. Generally speaking, however, the campus is kept up very well and, while comparatively small, is quite a beautiful place.

Then there has always been the matter of the food in the commons. This year has seen a decided change for the better. We graciously acknowledge a definite improvement over the quality of last year's food, but for fear that our compliments will be taken as a cover for economies we do suggest that the milk for breakfasts, for one thing, contain a larger percentage of butter-fat than of water. It seems futile to add more suggestions; all possible ones are already obvious.

As a final observation, we have noticed a decided lack of interfraternity activities so far this year. We remember that the Pan-Hellenic Council sponsored a series of tea dances, bowling matches, etc., last year. In our estimation those affairs were of a definite value, at least theoretically. We think that similar arrangements this year have a potential value which should not be overlooked. However, such a matter is something in which the Lyre Tree has only secondary interest and function.

Coach Summarizes X-Country Season

Weber, Bell, Sprague and Kates Eligible For Varsity Letter

The cross country season started with the squad in a state of depression over the loss of two most promising freshmen of the last year, namely, Perella and Pepper. The fact that Capt. Weber, the ablest runner in the college, was back in condition, was considered most fortunate but did not eclipse the realization that one man cannot constantly pull a team to victory.

Consequently, the squad went to work determined to show that no man is so good that his departure puts a quietus upon the sport entirely.

As a result the team has come through the season very creditably with three defeats and two victories. The fact that Alfred University won the triangular race with Williams ought not in all honesty to be counted against the team. Long before there was any correspondence with Alfred a dual meet with Williams had been managed. As a last minute arrangement, at the request of Alfred which was running at West Point two days previous, a three sided race was agreed upon. The record of the Alfred team over a decade of years made it a foregone conclusion that the affair would be nothing but a spectacle for the onlookers. The affair was not a trio but a solo by Alfred and a duet by Williams and St. Stephen's.

The defeat by Middlebury and Connecticut were by scores precisely the same as last year. In the final analysis, therefore, the team held its own with two rivals, lost to one (Hamilton) and won from Williams and Massachusetts Aggies.

The record of points for letters shows that in the five races, Capt. Weber made a perfect score of 25, Bell finished second among St. Stephen's runners in three races, and third in two, thus giving him 18 points, Sprague made 17, Kates 11, Courtney 3, Morrell 1 and Carr 1. This makes Weber, Bell, Sprague and Kates candidates for the award of the varsity letter.

If one is interested in statistics there are certain results that show that the team, in spite of its early handicaps, was not outclassed on a seasonal basis. If the times of the first four men to finish on each team are tabulated the following results are obtained:

	St. Stephen's	Oppon'ts
Hamilton	100:47	97:32
Middlebury	123:49	123:15
Williams	119:56	122:46
M. A. C.	120:04	121:47
Conn. Aggies	134:01	129:01

Total time for St. Stephen's 9 hours 58 minutes 37 seconds.

Total time for Opponents 9 hrs. 54 minutes 46 seconds.

The fifth man on the St. Stephen's team was a variable quantity, namely, Carr once, Morrell once, and Courtney three times. If the times for the first five men are taken the results are:

St. Stephen's, 12 hrs. 42 min. 42 seconds.

Oponents, 12 hrs. 20 min. 15 sec. Difference for season, 22 min. 27 secs.

Every man on the varsity squad improved his time continually but the outstanding features were the splendid marks set by Capt. Weber and the vast changes made by Sprague and Courtney over their efforts of last year. Kates likewise did well and he and Sprague are outstanding examples of what can be done in cross country by the man who is willing to keep at it. Courtney, although he has not

Dr. Nock Completes New Rabelais Edition

Dr. Albert J. Nock has recently completed his important work on Rabelais. The present work is a new issue of the Urquhart-Moffet text with notes and documentary illustrations. There are about eighty-five of the latter included in this issue. One of the important features of this new issue is Dr. Nock's introduction which has already been published by Harper's.

This work, which will be in two volumes, will appear next Spring. It is interesting to note that the last annotated edition of Rabelais appeared about one hundred years ago in the Bohn Library.

Deutsche Verein Plans For Year

The first meeting of the Deutsche Verein was held on the evening of November seventeenth at nine o'clock. The Verein was well attended by students who are at present studying German, others who have studied it in the past, and still others whose only relationship to German is their interest in that language and literature.

The real purpose of this first meeting was the election of officers that the Verein might continue to function throughout the coming year as a well-organized institution. The following men were elected to the various offices: Ortmyer, president, and Haines, Secretary-treasurer.

The program for the evening was as follows: (1) "The Effects of the Verein on the study of German," a short speech by Dr. Krumpelman, head of the German department; (2) election of officers for the coming year; (3) an account of the plans of the Verein for 1930-31; (4) the reading of a short German story; (5) the singing of popular German songs; (6) the serving of typically German refreshments in a characteristically German way; (7) the rendition of music at opportune moments by Hern Good, Griffiths and La Barre.

Carnegie Endowment Adds To Library

The Hoffman Library has recently been made one of the numerous libraries in which the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace places its publications. The publications of the Endowment are distributed throughout the United States and foreign countries in important libraries.

The Endowment issues books and pamphlets of two types: those intended for general circulation and those upon special topics. These publications are placed in the libraries with the understanding that they will be accessible to the general public.

We are to receive publications from the following divisions of the Endowment:

- Division of Education
- Division of International Law
- Division of Social History of the World War

yet made any phenomenal times, he has shown a higher percentage of improvement than any man on the team. No runner could have shown less promise than did he last year as a freshman. The numerals' requirements were quite beyond him then, but this year he negotiated them with ease and ought next year to begin to make really creditable times.

Next year's team must be formed with Bell, Kates, Morrell and Courtney as a basis with possibly Carr, if he can get his feet into condition. The loss of Weber will be keenly felt but another season's training may produce a better balanced team that will score as many points in the long run.

The Editor of the LYRE TREE has received numerous requests for copies of last year's Annual. In so far as he knows, there are no copies of that book now available.

Those of the Alumni and Friends of the college who desire a copy of this year's Annual should indicate their desire for such to the President of the Senior Class, Flint Kellogg.

Junior "Prom" First College Dance Of Year

Fraternity Dances Saturday Night Completed Week-end Events

The class of 1932 gave its promenade on the evening of Friday, Nov. 21, in the Memorial gymnasium.

The decorations consisted of a ceiling of cedar boughs, while the walls were covered with a black cyclorama bearing green silhouettes at regular intervals. The lights were in keeping with the rest of the decorations.

An eight piece colored orchestra from the Clef Club in New York City, which proved so popular at last year's dances, furnished the jungle opera.

A light supper was served in the Commons during the intermission between the eighth and ninth dances.

Patrons and patronesses were: Mr. and Mrs. W. M. V. Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Robbins, Mrs. O. H. Davis, Mrs. G. H. Scribner, Dr. and Mrs. Lyford Edwards, Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Upton, and Dr. and Mrs. B. I. Bell.

On Saturday there was a general exodus to Poughkeepsie to the shows or for drives through the countryside, returning in the evening for the fraternity parties which were held in the several houses. Sigma Alpha Epsilon gave a formal dinner for its members, pledges, and guests, with an open dance afterwards. Kappa Gamma Chi and the Eulexian fraternities held open house dances. Couples moved freely from house to house until the "curfew" rang at twelve o'clock.

Unfortunately no amount of prayers could bring back the full moon of the week previous, but it was universally agreed that the gods were good to the class of '32, and gave them perfect weather for their party.

The committee from the Junior class consisted of Nale, Paul, Scribner, Thorpe and Pickering, with Maldonado as treasurer of the class. The Sophomore committee assisting the Juniors was composed of Jordan and Mitton.

The Eulexian Fraternity announces the initiation of John W. Calkin '33 of Yonkers, N. Y., on November 20, 1930.

The Rev. Easton Earl Madeira, formerly of 3450 Chicago Blvd., Detroit, Michigan, has become priest-in-charge of St. Mark's Church, Plainview, Texas, and student pastor at the West Texas State Teachers' College, Canyon, Texas, in the Missionary District of North Texas.

Mrs. Richard Singleton Kirk announced the marriage of her daughter, Marion Mitchell, to Reverend Herbert Alcorn Donovan on Wednesday, September the seventh, 1930, at the Church of The Epiphany, Eutawville, South Carolina. It is of interest to the College to learn that a Former Student, Reverend Joseph Richard Alten, '03, of Sea Cliff, New York, has been uniquely honored by the New York State Firemen's Association, being elected its President for the coming year. This organization represents a membership of over 350,000 men, embracing the whole of New York State. It is rather an unusual honor for a priest to be chosen for this office.

With rapidly developing Alumni interest, it was entirely logical that a national organization of alumni officers should arise. This came in 1913, when some twenty alumni secretaries met at Ohio State University and organized the Association of Alumni Secretaries, which became in 1927 the American Alumni Council. This body now includes active alumni officers, of all types, from some 250 American colleges and universities, and represents in a sense the collective interest of the college graduates in America. It was in the deliberations of this body that the first expressing of a deeper and more fundamental graduate interest in the field of continuing education appeared.

The problem first came out into the open at the meeting of the Association of Alumni Secretaries at Lehigh University in April, 1925, in a discussion of the topic, "Educating the Alumni" by Levering Tyson, Director of the Home Study Department at Columbia University, and a former President of the Association. (See the successive annual reports of the Conference of the Association of Alumni Secretaries to 1917 and of the American Alumni Council of 1928-29). He first raised the question whether there was a real demand on the part of college graduates for a continuing educational effort.

The commercial correspondence schools indicate such a demand on the part of the general public, but so far the academic institutions, in his words, "have left to these concerns which are lining the pocket-books of stockholders an important duty to the American adult public which it is the function of the educational institution proper to perform."

"If we acknowledge that our alumni need 'education', what further proof do we require that what has been in vogue for so many years is inadequate or has not kept up with the demand of the times? Today we are crying out of one side of our mouths to be educated and out of the other against the change in a system which made us what we are and left us unsatisfied.

"In another place the same speaker suggested that our educational institutions exist for disseminating in formation and added to individual knowledge. Traditionally they have been engaged in worship exclusively with the younger generation as providing the most insistent problem. As a group we ought to stand as ready witnesses that no longer shall the limitation be imposed as strictly as it has been in the past. If there is a sufficiently large number of alumni who want this service from our educational institutions, it is up to the alumni organizations to prove it. Tell them in emphatic language, 'Don't just educate us—keep us educated.'"

Bishop Leonard was Chaplain of the Twenty-third Regiment, New York National Guard, from 1876 to 1880. He was also chaplain of the Ohio Society of New York and chaplain-general of the Society of Colonial Wars. Among many

Condition Critical

have no ready cash and no assured income. We have added in the past decade $850,000 worth of buildings and contents—all paid for. We have raised our professors' salaries over one hundred percent, until they are fairly respectable. We owe far less money than other times in the near past. But of ready, usable capital we have next to none. We must get $50,000 by January 1, 1931, wherewith to pay bills. We must get by June, for next year, either $75,000 in grants and subscriptions or $1,500,000 of endowment. We must get these things in the midst of the worst business depression of a generation.

"Will the college close? No! Neither the Church which started us nor the University which sponsors us can afford to see that happen. It would be a bitter blow to prestige. Moreover, our Trustees are working as never before. They have secured to date, $42,600 of the $50,000 which must be in hand by January. This is generally considered an astonishing thing to be done in these hard times and is most encouraging. Moreover, we have made scores of friends who will aid us when better times return. Moreover, we have been able to procure, from an anonymous source, some credit to see us over emergencies. This we must draw on as little as possible, since all sums so procured must eventually be repaid. There is no doubt that we shall be able to carry on our work and there need be no fear that the college will be abandoned. At the same time, our condition, like that of almost every other enterprise of our sort, is serious. I recommend that we keep our heads, do our work, say our prayers, and plan, as usual, for the future."—Bernard I. Bell, Warden.

Soccer Season Ends

Bloomquist, Capt-elect Good, Savage, Keppler, Symons, Nale, Foster, Maldonado, Paul, Gilreath, Craven, Spahr, Adkins, Hammond, and Mitton. As only Blomquist, Craven, and Hammond are to be graduated this year, we will have a full squad of lettermen back for the 1931 season. Prospects for next season, then, are exceedingly bright.

The games played this season and the scores are as follows:
St. Stephen's...0 E. Stroudsb'g...1
" " ...3 Williams...3
" " ...0 Steven's Tech...5
" " ...4 Conn. Aggies...3
" " ...1 R. P. I...3
" " ...6 Hamilton...4
Total Goals—St. Stephen's...14
—Opponents...19

All the colleges played by St. Stephen's this year, as is generally the case, far outnumbered us in available men in their student bodies. With this in mind we can be justly proud of our 1930 Soccer Team.

At a meeting of the letter men on the Soccer Squad, shortly after the Hamilton game, "Bill" Good, '32, of Newport, R. I., was elected captain for the next year.

or cranny, and barbarously thrust into the focus of the entire assembly's attention. One can't seem to avoid the impression thereupon conveyed by their frightened looks and startled glances of being somewhat out of their element; i. e., "pisces ablati aqua".

(Please don't mind this concentration of all the pupils, Sirs, we don't mean to be annoying. This is merely the cost of your customary isolation . . . and an opportunity for intimate contact. We don't get a treat such as this every day!)
Friend fool, later, while the meal is in progress, endeavors to furnish seasoning by means of his antics or saucy witticisms and wins acclaim or scorn thereby.

Following a program of after dinner talks and exchanges of good will, the company will adjourn at nine thirty to the gymnasium where St. Stephen's team intends furnishing the college with an exhibition of their basketball playing with the Hamilton College five. We hope that this game will convince everyone of the team's strength and ability to make a worth while record of the unusually difficult schedule that it has before it this season. Everyone's hearty support and cheers will be needed on this occasion!

The program of the Carol Service follows:

Prelude

(a) Solo: Cantique de Noel
Adolphe Adam (France 1803-1856)
(b) Hymn 78: O Little Town of Bethlehem (Words by Phillip Brooks) (Sung by all, standing)

Plays Of Interest

"Grand Hotel" is a play well worth seeing. It is a very clever translation from the German and is an amusing account of life in a European Hotel. Among those in the cast is Hortense Alden who will be remembered for her fine work in "Lysistrata."

Prominent among the mystery plays is "On the Spot," a new play by Edgar Wallace. Chicago gangsters are put on the spot and surely are taken for a ride. Crane Wilbur and Anna May Wong are in it.

At the Charles Hopkins we have "Mrs. Moonlight" which shows what happens when you don't show your age. Haidee Wright, known for her fine work in the "Royal Family" is in the cast.

Of the musical shows the best are: "Fine and Dandy" with Joe Cook. With funny lines and Joe Cook to deliver them—what more would you want? Then there is that intimate revue, "Three's a Crowd", in which the dancing that accompanies "Body and Soul," is just a wee bit short of being unusual. It has as its stars, Clifton Webb, Libby Holman and Fred Allen, the trio that made the first "Little Show" so popular.

"Girl Crazy" affords New York something smart in the way of musical comedy. The Gershwin music in itself is enough to assure its success. There is also "Princess Charming", a beautiful production and a great deal that is well worth seeing and hearing in an old-fashioned comic opera. It has Evelyn Herbert as its star.

Basketball Team

ruff crashed thru for three baskets in a row and the team snapped into form. In the first half, St. Stephen's adopted a strong offensive policy which proved very successful. Captain Fusscas sunk many well-timed distance shots and the shooting form of the team as a whole was excellent. At the end of the half, the home team was far in the lead, the score being, S. S. C. 24; Cathedral 13.

In the second half, Cathedral staged a big come-back and tied the score. This was largely due to the lucky distance shots of a Cathedral man named Fleming. St. Stephen's, however, was not to be phased and kept up its good shooting, and passing to win the game by a score of St. Stephen's 41; Cathedral 35.
