Alumni Five Downs Saints Team 44-42

Scarlet Loses To Upsala; Coast Guard Defeated

The St. Stephen's basketball team suffered defeat at the hands of the Alumni quintet last Saturday afternoon after losing to Upsala College and winning from the Coast Guard Academy in its two previous encounters. The team has now won three of its seven contests.

The Saints proved no match for the powerful team from New Jersey. Upsala piled up an early lead, and showed the way to the sons of Stephen throughout the first half. At the mid-way mark the visitors held the upper half of a 30-17 score.

Despite the brilliant playing of Bill Nieman, right forward for the home team, Upsala managed to maintain its superior advantage for the remainder of the game. Nieman scored twenty of the thirty-four points which the Saints tallied in the course of the evening. Walker and Carlson, forwards of the Upsala aggregation, accounted for thirty-one of their team's total of fifty.

Some two weeks later a strong St. Stephen's five nosed out the impressive Coast Guard Academy team after a thrilling uphill battle. The sailor boys took the lead at the half by a 21 to 15 score. At the opening of the second half the middies jumped into a thirteen point advantage. Thenceforth the home team piled up points in rapid succession due to the accurate shooting of Johnny Burgevin and Paul Woodruff, co-captains of the St. Stephen's team. With two minutes left to play, and the Academy still two points ahead, the alarm of "Sailor, Beware!" was sounded as Paul Woodruff took full advantage of three foul tries. The Connecticut team made a desperate effort in the last few seconds of play to regain their lead, but when the whistle blew ending the game the Saints showed a one point margin.

The game with the alumni played on the afternoon following the Freshman dance, proved to be an amusing as well as exciting spectacle.

Dr. Mansfield '92 Dies; Aided Sailors

Seamen's Institute Head For 25 Years

The Rev. Dr. Archibald Romaine Mansfield '92, superintendent of the Seamen's Church Institute of New York, died Sunday morning at his home, 40 Fifth Avenue, after a heart attack. He was sixty-three years old.

Dr. Mansfield was born in Spring Valley, N. Y., a son of The Rev. Romaine Stiles and Amelia Moore Mansfield. He was graduated from St. Stephen's with an A. B. degree in 1892 and four years later from the General Theological Seminary. He was ordained to the priesthood in 1897. In 1915 St. Stephen's awarded him the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity. He was a member of the Eulexian fraternity.

Dr. Mansfield spent thirty-eight years in mission work for sailors. He was associated with the Pike Street mission in 1896, and there became disgusted with the conditions under which sailors were forced to live.

"In those days," Dr. Mansfield said years later, "illicit dives and boarding houses of every sordid description flourished here. Seamen were exploited and victimized, 'shanghai'd' by crimps and tricked at every turn. As chaplain of the old Pike Street Mission I went out to fight the crimping system with its own rough-and-ready methods. We obtained a boat and met each incoming ship and offered the sailors wholesome surroundings, friendly protection and escape from the degrading influences of the waterfront."

Dr. Mansfield succeeded in getting rid of most of the practices to which he objected, although he was repeatedly threatened and exposed himself to danger in his work.

The little mission near the East River attracted wide interest under the direction of Dr. Mansfield, who became its superintendent in 1909, and in 1913, having prospered so well, it moved into new quarters at 25 South Street, where it has remained since that time a home for sailors of all nationalities. A $3,000,000 annex was built by the

Enigma

For some time the Editors of the Lyre Tree have felt dissatisfied with the name of this paper and have favored a change to some more suitable title. Although several titles have been suggested, the editorial board does not wish to take any definite steps without consulting the Lyre Tree's readers. Do the readers of this paper favor or disfavor a change in name? If they do favor a new name, what title would they suggest? The Editors would appreciate opinion on this matter.

Michael Stillman Drowned In River

Goes Through Ice Trying To Cross Blocked Hudson

Tragedy came to the St. Stephen's campus on the afternoon of February 1, when Michael S. Stillman '36 was drowned under the ice of the Hudson River as he attempted to cross from Tivoli, N. Y., to his camp at Woodstock, following the recent examination period.

Having planned to pass the week-end before the opening of the second semester at his summer home, Stillman took the chance of crossing the river on foot, the ferry lines being blocked by ice. Reginald Gasset, an employee of the New York Central Railroad, saw Stillman start across the ice late in the afternoon, and a short time later heard cries from the center of the river. Efforts of the Tivoli Fire Department and state troopers to recover his body proved futile.

Paddle Tennis Tourney To Get Under Way

Campus tennis fanatics, who are forced to forego the wielding of racquets during the long winter season, will be able to take part in an activity which approaches their favorite sport, should the proposed paddle tennis tournament at the college materialize as is expected.

75 Alumni Attend Mid-Winter Dinner

Dean and Bishop Manning Among Speakers

Seventy-five graduates and former students of St. Stephen's College attended the annual midwinter dinner of the alumni association which was held this year on Tuesday evening, January 23, at the Columbia University club, New York City.

At the speaker's table were seated the President of the Association, the Reverend Wallace J. Gardner '06, the Right Reverend William T. Manning, Bishop of New York; Dr. Donald G. Tewksbury, Acting Dean for the College; Mr. Woodbridge of the Architectural School of Columbia University; the Reverend John M. Gilbert '90, and the Reverend Elwyn H. Spear '11, Chairman of the Dinner Committee. Dr. J. Wallace Gardner of the Class of 1906, Vicar of the Chapel of the Intercession, New York City, and President of the Alumni Association, acted as toastmaster.

Dr. Tewksbury in his address to the Alumni described the establishment of the College three-quarters of a century ago for the purpose of preparing men for the Christian ministry and pointed out that, although many other colleges established for the same purpose had been diverted to other aims, St. Stephen's still continues to send many of its graduates into the Church. In discussing the past year the Dean pointed to a record of accomplishment, in spite of difficulties, in the maintaining of standards and the loyalty and fine spirit shown by students at Annandale. In discussing the future, the Dean said that as soon as possible the College would increase its student body to a maximum enrollment of two hundred and fifty and stated that prospects were bright for a capacity enrollment for next year. Applications so far this year far outnumber those of other years. The system of education similar to that of Oxford, that of a residence college within a great university, which has characterized St. Stephen's in the past and is almost identical with the new "house plan" adopted by Har-

40 Couples Attend Freshman Frolic

Gymnasium Decorated As Lodge For Dance

Holiday spirit prevailed at St. Stephen's the week-end of February 9, when forty students and their guests participated in the festivities of the annual Freshman Frolic.

The dance, held Friday evening, took place in the Memorial Gymnasium, decorated appropriately for the season in the style of a northern hunting lodge. The couples danced beneath an attractive ceiling of fir branches to the strains of the Pickwick Arms Hotel Orchestra. Two large fireplaces, set opposite each other before the side walls, lent a feeling of warmth with their red glare to those entering the dance from the sub-zero weather outside. Skis and snowshoes on the walls helped to create the atmosphere of a lodge. The lighting of the hall was pleasantly cared for by floor lamps on the orchestra platform and along the wall, and by red floods placed in the fireplaces. Comfortable furniture was placed about the room.

The patrons and patronesses for the dance were Dean and Mrs. Donald G. Tewksbury, Dr. and Mrs. Lyford P. Edwards, Dr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Harry, Dr. and Mrs. Carlton E. Upton, Dr. and Mrs. Harold R. Phalen, Dr. and Mrs. Abbott E. Smith, Dr. and Mrs. John T. Krumpelmann, and Dr. and Mrs. Stanley H. Leeke.

Fraternity parties were held on Saturday as customary, Sigma Alpha Epsilon giving an open-house tea in the afternoon, following the basketball game with the alumni. An open dance was held by Kappa Gamma Chi in the evening. Many of the guests and their escorts attended the game while others engaged in winter sports.

Among the guests assembled for the week-end were the Misses Ann St. Clair, Marybeth Binkley, Sally Leigh, Mary Hooper, Maxine Irwin, Ruth Small, Dorothy Thomas, Helen Barnes, Grace Taylor, Marjorie Cox, Mary Louise Walters, Ruth Bjorson, Beverly Brownell, Paula Delahunt, Emily Carpenter, Eliz-

Wanted: A Representative Student Government—An Editorial

The Lyre Tree presents here a plan for the election of Student Council members and Convocation officers which we feel, should it be adopted by the student body, would do much to strengthen student government at St. Stephen's College. The present form of the council and the present method of electing the Convocation officers have been on our minds for many months; we feel extremely dissatisfied with the way our governing body is chosen. For many years in this college machine government has existed. Fraternities or groups have banded together in order to assure that the various offices be held by certain individuals within their groups. Machine government has never had, and can never have, the whole-hearted support of those who are governed. There is too much of a spirit of opposition in the losing party and in those who respect representative, popular and democratic government. We do not say that those elected by means of the machine do not, to the best of their ability, attempt to perform the duties of their respective offices, most of them do, but we do declare that their manner of assuming office is not to be admired nor the position respected. One has only to sit in at a meeting of Convocation to realize the difficulties and handicaps under which the presiding officer must work. No meeting in the experience of this department has accomplished its business with anything approaching the decorum which should accompany it. Never is there a full attendance of the student body at a meeting except when machines are put in operation for the election of officers. Then absences are carefully and capably taken care of by the means of proxies.

In addition to making a change in the manner in which officers of Convocation are elected, we suggest that a more representative student council than we have now be installed for the next session.

By this we mean that the custom of having the council composed only of seniors be discarded and that membership be extended to the Junior and Sophomore classes as well. We need not attempt to explain the advantages of such a change. That students from more than one class be represented on the Council would assure a more efficient and a stronger governing body of student affairs. The plan which we propose for the election of student council members and officers of Convocation is as follows:

The Student Council of St. Stephen's College shall be composed of eight undergraduates to be elected by the student body. Of these eight, four shall be seniors, two juniors, and two chosen from the sophomore class. The four seniors shall represent the four groups on campus; that is, there shall be a representative of each fraternity and a non-society man elected. The two juniors shall also be elected from separate groups and the two sophomores from the groups not represented by the Junior class members. Once the Council is chosen, the Officers of Convocation shall be elected by the members of that council. The procedure of the Convocation Meeting at which elections take place would be as follows:

When the present president has called for nominations for senior members of the Student Council for the next year, a representative of each group shall propose the name of a present junior already chosen by his group. When the four are nominated, the secretary of Convocation shall be instructed to cast one vote for each man. Each group shall then nominate one present sophomore for junior member for the next year. Of the four nominees, two shall be elected by popular ballot. Two groups that are then not to be represented by junior members shall nominate two present freshmen for sophomore representatives. The two groups winning the elections for junior members shall be prohibited by law from making any further nominations after the men for junior membership have been chosen. The secretary of Convocation shall be instructed to cast one ballot for each nominee for sophomore member. The marshal of the student body shall be nominated and elected by popular ballot.

Upon completion of the elections the newly elected Student Council shall retire and from its own ranks elect the Convocation officers for the next year. The offices shall be president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer. All shall be held by seniors.

We urge that the college give this proposal serious consideration and that some such plan be adopted before the student government for next year goes into office. We believe that such a step will aid considerably the welfare, unity and happiness of the student body as well as in helping the college move forward.

The Editors.

vard and Yale, will be continued. Finally the Dean expressed the vital importance to the future growth of the College of the loyalty and cooperation of the Alumni.

The second speaker, Mr. Woodbridge, who described the architectural plans for the College, was enthusiastic over the natural beauty of the campus and its air of having existed three centuries rather than three-quarters of a century. The future college will be composed of two quadrangles, the first to have Wardens' Hall at the northwest corner, with a cloister along one side and a tower sufficiently high to give a view of the Hudson, and the second at the back of the old stone buildings. The approach to the College from the road to Annandale will be changed and two converging roads substituted.

Assurance of his deep interest in the future of St. Stephen's College was the keynote of the address made by Bishop Manning. He stressed the identity of the purpose and aims of the Church and of the College. The Bishop admitted that in the past St. Stephen's had not always been popular with the diocese of New York but paid tribute to the honorable tradition of scholarship and distinction of character which the College had always possessed. He stressed the fact that the aims of St. Stephen's and the aims of the Church have always been catholic in the broadest and deepest sense of the word. He assured the Alumni of his interest in the College and of his desire to help its program in any possible way.

tacle for the mixed prom audience. The "visitors", despite the fact that they were supplied with only one substitute, showed unusual team work. The work of Fuscass and Good was outstanding.

The undergraduates led at the half by an 18 to 16 score. Early in the second half the alumni began to assume the lead. At this time, Coach Leeke withdrew the Junior Varsity five, who had been playing during most of the first half and during the early part of the second half, in favor of the regular five. Efforts to overcome the advantage of the alumni were in vain and, despite a last minute rally, the game ended in the grads' favor, 44 to 42. Burgevin was high scorer for the Saints.

It should be noted that this last game is not to be included in the official records for the season because of an agreement made during the course of the contest. In order to allow the game to continue it became necessary to suspend the ruling regarding the banishing of those players from the game who have incurred 4 fouls.

institute six years ago. A restaurant, reading and writing rooms, courses for professional advancement, entertainments, athletic activities, lectures, a relief loan fund, and a service for locating missing seamen are among the many aids given to sailors who come to the institute.

Dr. Mansfield was instrumental in making every improvement at the institute. He helped to establish a radio medical service which provides medical care by radio to ships at sea without doctors on board.

Similar seamen's institutes in Philadelphia, San Francisco, Los Angeles and other large ports have achieved success largely through the help of Dr. Mansfield.

Funeral services were held at the Seamen's Institute Chapel of Our Saviour, 25 South Street, on Tuesday afternoon by Bishop William T. Manning and the Rev. Dr. Donald B. Aldrich. Burial was in Philadelphia.

S.A.E. Holds Bowling Lead

The Sigma Alpha Epsilon bowling team at present leads the campus bowling matches, having amassed a total pin score of 3900, with two matches to play.

The Help team, the Faculty team, and the Non Society team, also have two more matches to go. They have pin scores of 3667, 3512, and 3380 respectively. The Kappa Gamma Chi and Eulexian teams have scores of 4930 and 4849 respectively, with one more match to play.

Frost holds the high single-string score of 206. Mathes follows closely with 204, and Coach Leeke with 192. Mathes holds the high three-string score of 549, and the high average score of 162.
