What Makes the Firefly Glow?

You can hold a firefly in your hand; you can boil water with an electric lamp. Nature long ago evolved the "cold light." The firefly, according to Ives and Coblentz, radiates ninety-six percent light and only four percent heat. Man's best lamp radiates more than ninety percent heat.

An English physicist once said that if we knew the firefly's secret, a boy turning a crank could light up a whole street. Great as is the advance in lighting that has been made through research within the last twenty years, man wastes far too much energy in obtaining light.

This problem of the "cold light" cannot be solved merely by trying to improve existing power-generating machinery and existing lamps. We should still be burning candles if chemists and physicists had confined their researches to the improvement of materials and methods for making candles.

For these reasons, the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company are not limited in the scope of their investigations. Research consists in framing questions separated lines that we arrive at most of our modern answers to such questions may or may not be of practical value, but of this we may be sure—it is by dovetailing the results of "theoretical" investigations along many widely separated lines that we arrive at most of our modern "practical" discoveries.

What will be the light of the future? Will it be like that of the firefly or like that of the dial on a luminous watch? Will it be produced in a lamp at present undesigned of, or will it come from something resembling our present incandescent lamp? The answers to these questions will depend much more upon the results of research in pure science than upon strictly commercial research.

Convocation Backs Athletic Association

At a special meeting of the Convocation of Undergraduates of St. Stephen's College on the evening of May 9th, President Colwell brought to the attention of the meeting the depleted condition of the finances of the A. A. It has been on this account that our scope of activity in athletics has been greatly limited, not only in basket-ball, but also in foot-ball and baseball. The action taken at this meeting is quite exemplary of the energy and enthusiasm that all our men hold for this, very naturally, popular department of the college. After the Convocation Treasurer had reported a balance of nearly sixty-nine dollars in the treasury, without a dissenting voice, it was immediately moved to transfer sixty dollars of this amount toward the Athletic Association fund. After disposing of some other minor business, a number of the base-ball squad were called upon and amid hurrahs and salutations, each man was brought to his feet. It was all a splendid manifestation of loyalty and spirit and of the high place that our Alma Mater holds in the heart of those concerned. At the annual meeting of Convocation, May 16, the following officers were elected to serve for the next academic year:

President of the Convocation—Mr. Harry Turney-High, '22.
Vice-President—Mr. Howard E. Koch, '22.
Secretary—Mr. Robert T. Dickerson, '22.
Treasurer—Mr. Herbert Donovan, '22.
Student Council—Mr. John B. Lyte, '23; Mr. Herbert Donovan, '22; Mr. Robert T. Dickerson, '22.
University at-Large, Finance Committee—Mr. Howard E. Koch, '22; Mr. Donald M. Kastler, Sp. Marshal—Mr. Herbert A. Donovan, '22.
Member-at-Large, Finance Committee—Mr. Albert Welford, '22.
President of the Convocation—Mr. Harry Turney-High, '22.

Dr. Whiting to Leave

The Messenger wishes to announce that Professor Whiting has finally accepted the offer of the University of Iowa which was mentioned in our last issue. The college is very sorry to hear of Dr. Whiting's final decision, feeling that we are losing a very valuable member of our teaching staff. His successor has not yet been appointed.

We are also able to announce that Professor Prince has decided to stay at St. Stephen's. This has caused a great deal of satisfaction among the undergraduate body, especially with his disciples on the athletic field.

Annandale Spring

Come up, come up to Annandale, For Spring-time is at hand; In forest nook and wooded vale, A perfect wonderland.

Come up, come up to Annandale, Where everything is gay Bright violets and lillies pale Bloom along the way.

Come up, come up to Annandale, The grass and leaves are green And every streamlet tells a tale Of life, calm and serene.

Come up, come up to Annandale, See apple blossoms fair, Their soft, smooth, silken petals frail, With perfume scent the air.

Come up, come up to Annandale, The twilight hours are long, The beauteous sunsets cannot fail To route your soul in song.

ALUMNI—JUNE 14
THE MESSENGER

Commencement

The program of the 1921 commencement has been given out by the President's office as follows:

Sunday, June 12—10:30 a.m., Baccalaureate Sermon by the Rev. Dr. J. G. H. Barry, Recto of the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, New York, at the gymnasium for the faculty, students, and neighbors on Wednesday, May 25th. The next evening the play will be staged in the Town Hall at Hyde Park, under the auspices of the Episcopal Church.

The play will be preceded by a short preliminary program. Fr. Fowler will play, Fred Barry will sing, and Herbert Craig has promised one of his readings. No printed programs will be used, but a prologue will be read describing the play and characters.

Consecration of Bishop Manning

On Wednesday, May 11th, in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, New York City, the Rev. William T. Manning, S. T. D., D. C. L., some-time rector of Trinity Parish, New York, was consecrated Bishop of New York. The Bishop of New York is ex-officio President of our Board of Trustees, it was quite fitting that our President and Faculty should be present and form a part of the very impressive procession.

Dramatics

DRAMATIC activity at St. Stephen’s has at last made a definite start. After much tral and tribulation, a comparatively small group of men (the same few who are on hand always to take part in outside activities) have succeeded in preparing “The Man Who Married A Dumb Wife” for presentation with the aid of Mrs. Kaltenbach, Mrs. MacDonald, and Mrs. Whiting, and under the direction of the President.

Equipment for the stage has arrived from the Lee Lash Studios, and installed by Mr. Robert Dickie, who decorated the Ambassador and the Ritz, in New York. Our facilities now on hand for putting on a production are of the first order. The carpenters are putting the finishing touches on our knock-down stage; complete lighting equipment will arrive from New York in time for the dress rehearsals beginning May 23d.

A performance will be given in the gymnasium for the faculty, students, and neighbors on Wednesday, May 25th. The next evening the play will be staged in the Town Hall at Hyde Park, under the auspices of the Episcopal Church.

Enlarged Student Body

Owing to the greatly increased student body next year, the president has found it necessary to lodge three students to a suite in the stone buildings. We had hoped to have some new dormitories by the opening of the next academic year, but owing to the financial stringency which St. Stephen’s is facing along with the rest of the country, we will not be able to build this summer. It is hoped that this inconvenience will not last longer than the coming year.

While this is nothing like as pleasant as our old arrangement, there are some advantages. First of all, St. Stephen’s needs more men. For years we have realized that we are just a bit too small for our own good. We can’t wait until we are able to furnish such comfortable quarters as we have hitherto enjoyed. We believe this arrangement will be of great advantage to the incoming freshmen. Every sophomore and upperman should take up the challenge to see who can lose his queen first. To strive to see who can lose his queen first. To Keep all your ideas.

Gladys—The professor was so angry when he wrote the exam.

June 12-13-14!

THE MESSENGER
Sig-Alph Dance a Success

WITH the advent of the full moon, and the full flowering of the springtime evening, the doors of the gymnasium were thrown open to an eager throng of students and their partners. As they entered into the bright light of the outer hall they might see through the wide doors leading into what was once the main part of the gymnasium a scene that was entirely foreign to the ordinary business-like aspect of the workaday "gym." The picture presented to them was one of wooded scene with Oriental lanterns hanging from the foliage. Dim light pervaded throughout. As the dancers entered from the bright light of the hall, they were immersed in the soft light of the Oriental lanterns. Looking up one could see a canopy of green like the natural arched roof of the forest. Hanging on the back wall of the room with a background of massed laurel leaves was the badge of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, its border studded with jewelled lights of purple and gold. The lower walls were banked with large branches with thick foliage. Under the balcony were arranged seats for the patronesses and their friends.

The dance began with a burst of rhythmic strains, and soon the one-step music from the Saturday following the dinner. The students expected to entertain their guests with a baseball game with Albany State on the Saturday following the dance. The college with its guests and friends, journeyed to Red Hook, but had to be content with watching the St. Stephen's team warm up. The Albany team had no trouble all the way down, and did not arrive on the campus until after dinner.

The moon-light waltz was especially beautiful. All lights were turned off except the jewels of the Sig-Alph badge. The moonlight streaming through the foliage above, bathed the dancers in a silvery mist—it was enchanting.

The patronesses attending were Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Kaltenbach, Mrs. MacDonald, Mrs. Upton, Mrs. Sorne, Mrs. Whiting, Mrs. Prince. The dancers were as follows: President and Mrs. Bell; Prof. and Mrs. MacDonald, Dr. and Mrs. Whiting, and Mrs. Prince, Dr. Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin, Mr. and Mrs. de Potter, Miss Adams, of Red Hook, with Keedwell; Miss Smille, of Rhinebeck, with Stretch; Miss Rowe, of Rhinebeck, with Hoffmann; Miss Scott with Strong; Miss Curtis, of Red Hook, with Moore; Miss Savage, of Hempstead, L. L. with O. Simms; Miss Richardson, of Williamsville, Pa., with Colwell; Miss Van Tuyll, of Kirkwood, Ill., with Koch; Miss Yorman, of Chicago, with Clark; Miss Penn, of William College, with Welford; Miss Persons, of Brooklyn, with Kroll; Miss Van Wagenen, of Kingston, with Dickerson; Miss O'Connell, of Barrytown, with Welford; Miss Haynes, of Vassar, with Kastler, Miss de Lorme, of Fort Hills, L. I., with T. Richie; Miss Moody, of New Haven, with Sayre; Miss Cribb, of Poughkeepsie, with Lyre; Miss Plass, of Barrytown, with Vannix; Miss Rollins, of Barrytown, with Mr. Fowler; Miss Reinert, of Trenton, with Fitz-Randolph; Miss Mekkin, of Irvington-on-Hudson, with Kidd; of Poughkeepsie, with Coffin; Miss MacPherson, of Red Hook, with Edwards; Miss Jones, of Schenectady, with Jones; Miss Henderson, of Troy, with Craig; Miss Hall, of Balston Spa, with Howell; Miss Betts, of Troy, with Simmonds; Miss Narpel, of Vassar, with Cowling; Miss Thurland, of Cornwall, with Parker; Miss Dean, of New York, with Donovan: Mr. Anderson, of White Plains: Miss Roberts, with Mr. Webb; Brincoln.

The students expected to entertain their guests with a baseball game with Albany State on the Saturday following the dance. The college with its guests and friends, journeyed to Red Hook, but had to be content with watching the St. Stephen's team warm up. The Albany team had no trouble all the way down, and did not arrive on the campus until after dinner.

A sparrow sat on a telegraph wire
And said to his mate, "I declare
If the wireless idea improves any more,
We'll soon be sitting on air."—The Monk.

The basketball game was just finished and the guard started for the dressing room. A fair young co-ed rushed forward and said, "I made a bet on how the ball would come out. I bet that you were never fooled for holding." The guard blushed. "You lose," said he. "I was slipped once." And he dropped the black hat.

THE LETTER BOX

BEAT PRINCETON

BEAT Princeton! This we can do, and this we MUST do. There are always some in every college and in every organization, men who doubt, and think that thing is impossible. Thank God there are few, and if these few continue to hold on to doubt, they will never get very far in life. To the timid and hesitating, everything is impossible, because "it seems so," says Scott. Doubt in every-day life is as great a crime as fear in a soldier. The strength of a chain is the strength of its weakest link. Doubt is the weak link that paralyzes many a strong brain, and yes, many a strong athletic team. Let us do away with all the weak links in baseball—all of whom shoot an empty "line" under the Lyre tree instead of showing up on the ball field with an enthusiastic spirit which they can transfer into the soul of every ball player. "Tis true, members of the squad make errors. If they did not we would not have a team. Let the coach correct the errors and let us, who do not play, only remark about the successes.

The team must do their part. In order to beat Princeton we must start now. Last-minute stuff gets nowhere. The team cannot expect the student body to co-operate and boost unless they make a great sacrifice, and give up some personal pleasures which they now enjoy, and which they must cast aside, if they are to abide by the rules of training, and which they must do if they are fully determined to defeat Princeton. The game is going on now, between April 15 and June 15. It is either won or lost when Colwell throws his first ball. The sincerity of every member on the team lies in the manner and spirit with which he accepts the rules of training and the manner and spirit by which he abides by them.

We have the greatest confidence in our baseball team and of every member on the same. We want the players to have confidence in themselves. Let us pull together. Players, do your part, off of the field as well as on the field. Lyre Tree loafers, tennis sharks, and book worms, do your part both on and off the field. Examine your own conscience. You know how you stand and the rest of us know how you stand. Where is the faculty? An ABSOLUTE FAITH backed up by DEETERMINATION will bring sure victory. Trinity is only a breathing bit, though strong they may be. We intend to blow through them and then fight a life and death struggle with Princeton. If there be any man in college who has lost his appendix upon an operating table, then show up the rest of your—well, call it what you may.

S. H. SAYRE.

FRESHMAN RULES

THE sophomores are the mentors of the freshmen, and through the year should teach them those things which ought to make the frosh earnest and hard workers, as well as men who will have those ideals that a college man should. As diligent freshmen who have done as we were told, these are the things we have learned from our teachers:

That cheating is great work if the professor doesn't know otherwise.

That to crib and yet "pledge" the paper is not a splendid article of merit.

That "borrowing" articles for an indefinite length of time is not inconvenience the owner at all (if he objects, show righteous indignation and anger).

That mudin drunkenness is not funny.

That just getting by in one's studies is all that is necessary. ("What do the professors think we are, anyhow?")

And if a freshman does not follow these "splendid" rules, and does as he wishes, he is a fool. If he works as his studies with the best that is in him, living up to his obligations as a gentleman should, and recognizing the sacredness of property and honor, they will use his papers as trustworthy copy books, and borrow his money with great pelves for he uses their word that it will be paid back soon.

(Signed) A FRESHMAN.

This was recently contributed by a freshman, and we have thought it worth publishing, not only as a refreshing bit of freshman style, but as a lesson to the teachers. If conditions described in this outburst are true and the writers would dare say so, if they are not, it is high time that class organizations and student government took a hand in cleaning up. St. Stephen's will not stand for this sort of thing.—Ed.

EDITORIAL

This issue marks the maiden effort of the new board. We presume that we are expected to state our policy for the coming term in this issue, and thus keep up the tradition of incoming editorial boards. This is an easy thing to state in a few words. So much of the Messenger needs changing that we are still a little averse to the idea of any step that may be taken toward the end of the pole. We are tired of continual appeals for copy and money, and we are going to quit being editorial mendicants. We are going to do our part, and not the editors'.

The very physical appearance of the Messenger is against it in the beginning. Its present paper, form, and arrangement resemble the annual report of some ambitious parish, or the literature of the National Student Council. Such literature is altogether for organizations of this kind, but it is a dreary excuse for a college paper. The new board is ambitious to give it some personality, an attractive appearance, something that will speak to you at first sight. To do this we need pages, cartoons, and illustrations of various kinds. We want to add a distinctive paper and shape, so that one can tell what a man is reading when he crosses the campus with the latest issue. This is going to cost some money, which must come in some way.

For the material in the columns, dear fellow-students, a very large part of it is coming from you. Conditions described in the following editorial are going to cease. We have the raw material in abundance, and henceforth contributions must be more remarkable for both quality and quantity. Get to work. We are willing to lead you, but not to shoulder your end of the pole. The time has come for the editorial board to cease. We have the issue, while the rest of the college sits back and waits to cram the new number as soon as it appears.

The present board has been considering whether it would not be a good policy to discontinue the Messenger altogether. St. Stephen's would then be without even an excuse for a publication, but it is certain that within a few years the student body would realize the need for some sort of publication, and there would be a spontaneous movement to start one. And that publication would succeed for the reason that everyone would be interested.

The function of a Board of Editors is to select material for publication from the mass of manuscripts submitted, to put it in a form that would meet the approval of the majority of care-free delegates, which in turn spent its time exploring the falls. Indeed, the majority of care-free delegates, which in turn spent its time exploring the falls, was held at Annandale-on-Hudson on Sunday.

The sixth, seventh, and eighth of May found us playing the uncustomed role of host to a very interesting group of weekend guests from Columbia, Princeton, Cornell and Colgate Universities, and Hamilton, Hobart, Adelphi, Barnard, Elmhurst, Rutgers, Vassar, and New York State Colleges. The guests arrived in time for a late dinner on Friday, after which part of the evening was spent dancing to music furnished by "Ted" Lewis' Jazz Band, Benson's Orchestra, and others.

Saturday we were able to entertain our visitors by taking them to Red Hook, where they witnessed our glee at the victory over Manhattan College's baseball team. Saturday evening was a quiet one, although there were rumors that our guest incurred the slight displeasure of their classmates by staying out on the campus till a rather late hour.

Sunday was spent chiefly in showing the strangers about the vicinity of the college. Sawkill Falls and the Italian garden came in for their rightly deserved share of applause and appreciation, and proved to be the most popular destinations of our perambulations. One of us calculated that no less than twenty couples visited the falls Sunday morning.

Some of us feared that St. Stephen's was going to fail in upholding the hospitable traditions of its predecessors, but our fears proved groundless: the ice cream appeared at dinner Sunday noon.

Sunday afternoon saw many cameras in action, and a few more expeditions to the falls were made by enthusiasts who were still undaunted by the explorations of the forenoon. And then came the dismal end of a perfect three days: our guests were forced to depart for their respective colleges shortly after vespers.

We are told by somebody or other that a conference of the National Student Council was held at St. Stephen's on the sixth, seventh, and eighth of May. It is true that the visitors amused themselves off and on by holding committee meetings and various conferences in the gym. No, we are rather doubtful that they accomplished much. Apparently a serious-minded minority spent its time being incensed at the majority of care-free delegates, which in turn spent its time exploring the little group of Serious Thinkers and picking wild flowers; between them things did not progress with exactly startling rapidity.

We are not sorry that it was all about, but everybody did seem to have a pleasant time.

Are you coming June 12-14?
Chapel Notes

The Very Rev. Dr. Washburn, Dean of the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, Mass., preached before the college on May 4.

Miss Harriet Parsons, guest of Prof. and Mrs. Kaltenbach, assisted Mr. Fowler at the weekly organ recital on May 1. Miss Parsons' voice and program were greatly appreciated.

The Rev. Charles Lathrop, Executive Secretary of the Department of Social Service, Presiding Bishop and Council, preached before the college and their guests of the National Student Council Conference on Sunday, May 8.

ALUMNI NOTES

Rev. Ernest C. Tuthill has been forced to resign his rectorship of St. Paul's Church, Watertown, N. Y., on account of ill health. On the advice of his doctors he will take up his residence in Kansas, where his speedy recovery is expected.

Plans for a track meet between the combined teams of Oxford and Cambridge and representatives from Harvard and Yale have been completed. The meet will be held at New Haven some time in July.

The call for baseball candidates in the University of Minnesota was answered by a dozen men who came out to please the coach. It was then decided to replace baseball in the university by Spring football practice.

In Other Colleges

This Spring the University of California is sending two teams across the continent. Its crew will meet the strong Princeton crew early in June, while its track team will participate in the meet at Cambridge in May.

Waseta University, of Japan, is planning to send a baseball nine this Summer to compete with many of the larger colleges and universities of this country. Prof. Iso Abe, who is called "father of baseball in Japan," will accompany the team on the tour. Prof. Abe hopes to form a strong athletic friendship between the two countries.

Agitation is under way in four Eastern colleges, namely, Cornell, Dartmouth, Columbia, and Pennsylvania, to form a "Big Four" eventually destined to rival the Yale, Harvard and Princeton "Big Three" in the intercollegiate world. It is reported that all four institutions are in favor of the plan.

The baseball team representing the University of Washington will play a series of games with the team representing the Waseta University, of Japan, next September and October, in the latter's home city of Tokio, according to arrangements made.

The present year marks the largest enrollment at the University of Chicago of foreign students that that institution has ever had. There are 453 such students representing forty-two countries. Russia leads, with one hundred, while China comes second with seventy-five.

The University of Rochester has received a gift of $100,000 from Mr. R. T. Miller, Jr., to be called the "Elta Clarke Miller Loan and Scholarship Fund." The income from this fund will be used to assist needy undergraduates and graduate students.

Beginning next September, the "One-year residence rule" goes into effect at the University of Rochester. According to this, no freshman will be allowed to play on any varsity team, but the freshmen will be coached and trained for this Summer with a view to send a base-ball team to compete with the other colleges.

BASEBALL SEASON OPENS

The baseball team opened its season with Albany State College, at Albany, on April 23. The game was played in a drizzling rain, play being suspended several times on account of the severity of the downpour, and the wet ball made luck a predominating factor. Albany State managed to get eight runs across the plate, while the best we could do was seven scores. There were no outstanding features of the game, as conditions made good playing impossible.

MANHATTAN LOSES TO ST. STEPHENS

On April 27 the team journeyed to Cornell and defeated the New York Military Academy by a score of 6-7, in a game marked by heavy hitting and fast folding. Willmarth started the game in the box, but was relieved by Colwell in the third inning. Colwell held N. Y. M. A, safely to the end of the game, striking out ten men. Schroeder was batted out of the box in the fourth inning; Rowley started at the bat.

MANHATTAN AGAIN DEFEATED

On May 11 the team visited New York and entered into a battle with Manhattan College. Colwell pitched a steady game, and kept the hits well scattered, striking out eleven Manhattanites. Mahoney and Lina starred for Manhattan. A fast double play by Craig and Steuart spoiled Manhattan's chances of scoring in their half of the seventh inning. Willmarth received two timely singles, and Rickey, Colwell, and Cowling also contributed to the batting fest.

BEDTIME STORY

He was a bashful lad and he loved Minnie. Thanks of the Iota Go Kappa house. Unfortunately his tongue wouldn't function at the proper interval, however, and he never told her of his love. Then Heza hit upon a great scheme. He decided to take a few nips of Pinaud before calling upon his love, thus to oil his backward tongue at the right time. But unfortunately our hero took a nip too much, so that instead of oiling his tongue he oiled his entire body so that he became a venerable "colt cat." Then he was sore in trouble for he could not distinguish a back door from a front door with the result that, chatting at will, he entered the back, proposed to the cook, and they lived "chattily" ever after.

"Is the old H. C. L. striking you hard?" inquired the sophomore of the newly-married senior.

"Not yet," replied the harassed one.

"But a last he saw it all
And then he took her hand in his
And daintily
Wound her wrist-watch!"

Fr. Mac said, "Well, hoary, I guess I'll go out and play:
So he trivelled with Hegel
And sported with Schlegel,
And had such a wonderful day.

Father Goose Rhymes

Nursery rhymes are out of date
And I don't want to be too frisky,
But it certainly takes a lot of Jack
To buy a Gift of whiskey.—Tar Baby.

JAZZ AND JACK

It was the night of the formal
And the boys all had "folls".
It was Jack's first time in papa's
And he was pulling some bulls.

Twice
He kept his hands in his pockets
And he'd put cuffs on his pants,
Once he slept on Eve's corns
And sat out the next dance.

The girls thought him a dodo
When he poured tea down his neck.
And they all heartily admitted,
Their sins had dragged in a week.

Last down.
Later he went out into business
And separated money from owners.
Now they all ask him to dances.
They must have forgotten his boners.—Erch.

Dear Friends:

This month there are three things about which I wish to speak briefly:

1. COMMENCEMENT. The College wishes all of its old boys back. The graduating class are all men, of course, but you fellows are all boys, especially when you drive up the road once more and catch a glimpse of the June-time campus beneath the old trees. There were a good many of you who renewed your youth last June. Most of those men will be back for another rejuvenation this year. Are you going to join them? June 12-14 are the dates—and June 14 is the especial date—this year. The nurturing mother wishes to see her lads again.

2. NEXT YEAR’S ENTERING CLASS will be, as things look now, by far the largest in our history, and also of extraordinary quality. I am frequently asked if we can take any more. Send them along, if they are worth while—real men, decently prepared, and with some small degree, at least, of affection for learning. We’ll pack them in somewhere. We need a new dormitory or two very much indeed. Maybe someone will give us one if they see men hanging out the window-sills by their eye-lashes. We can always get a room somewhere, on the campus or off, for the right sort of freshman.

3. BISHOP MANNING, OF NEW YORK, at a great dinner on May 16, which marked the beginning of his episcopate, told over a thousand people assembled at the Waldorf that there were five things which made up the chief aims of that episcopate, as follows: the promotion of the Nation-Wide Campaign; the endowment of the Bishops of the diocese; the paying of living wages to the clergy; the adequate maintenance of St. Stephen’s College; and the building of the nave of the Cathedral.

It is a thing for which all St. Stephen’s men ought to give thanks that the new Bishop has so wisely, definitely, and lovingly recognized and endorsed us. It means much to us. It is a challenge to us.

Yours cordially,

President.
