DR. WOLFF'S NEW BOOKS PUBLISHED
by Bob Sherman
Dr. Wolf is a well-known authority on anthropology, psychology, and 303 sociology. His latest book, "Psychology of Race," which is forthcoming, is expected to be released by Grune and Stratton, publishers of "New Books." This is the first book to appear in this series.

The book is a study of the psychology of race in modern society. It covers such topics as race relations, prejudice, and discrimination. The book is intended for students, educators, and anyone interested in understanding the psychological aspects of race.

FREE X-RAYS

Five free x-rays have been made possible by the sale of "Christmas Beach," the Netherlands County Health Association's annual Christmas program. The x-rays are offered to families with children under the age of 18. The program is designed to help parents and children detect and treat dental problems early. The program is also intended to promote dental health awareness.

NEW COLLEGE OPENED

Chicago's new Roosevelt College, a memorial to the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, held its dedication service yesterday. The college is a part of the University of Chicago and is intended to provide education for students who have been unable to attend college due to financial circumstances.

BARD SEES FAMOUS MODERN DANCER

INTER-COLLEGIATE MEETING HELD

On Saturday, March 9th, Bard attended the annual Intercollegiate Spring Conference. This conference, in cooperation with the Student Christian Movement in this state, was open to all interested students, faculty advisors and staff from different religious groups throughout the state.

BEARDED LADY FROM EUROPE

The Department of Psychology at Bard College, under the direction of Professor Charles Cunningham, has established a new course in psychology. The course, which is designed for upperclassmen, is intended to provide an introduction to the field of psychology.

REVIEWED COUNCIL ELECTS BLACKSTONE CHAIRMAN

With the election of three new members and two new house chairmen to fill vacancies on the Board of Trustees, the Community Council will meet for the first time this term, a complete roster of members—sixteen in all. The first meeting of the new term was called to order by Dr. Blackstone, chairman of the Board of Trustees. The new members are elected by the Committee of the Board of Trustees to serve a one-year term.

SPECIAL EVENTS

In connection with the annual Spring Conference, a special event was held on campus. The event was a dance, which was sponsored by the Student Christian Movement. The dance was well attended, with a large turnout of students and faculty.

BARD'S SEAS FAMOUS MODERN DANCER

On Tuesday, February 26th, Bard students of the dance gathered in the gymnasium for a demonstration by Mary Wigman, a famous modern dancer. The demonstration was part of the annual Intercollegiate Spring Conference, which is held each year to promote intercollegiate cooperation and to provide a platform for students to showcase their talents. The conference includes events such as dances, concerts, and presentations by guest speakers. Mary Wigman, a renowned modern dancer, was a guest speaker at the conference. Her performance was well received by the students, who were impressed by her dynamic and expressive movements.
Letters To The Editor:

DOES BARD NEED CHEELEADERS?

The question of intercollegiate sports at Bard has been brought to the fore once again. Rarely a new issue in the minds of Bardians, resurrected periodically in the past and squelched as often as it has been presented, the question of sport is once again pressed by an influential minority, the moldy old surface of club-rush intrigue which has been rather unnecessarily dragged out from the "good old days" history has revealed.

When St. Stephen's was buried, and Bard was born, there was no need to entertain such intercollegiate sports were considered, but it was soon seen that the objectives of Bard, sublimated and presented today as they were then, precluded such athletic activity. The reason is simple, and it's rather understandable; Bard has continually trafficked for active student participation in everything. Not only in classes, not only in student government and conversation, but also in athletics, entertainment, and other extra-curricular activities. The situation with which we are faced at present is hardly acceptable to the majority of the students. Bard was fortunate enough to possess three gymnasia, two in which to tramp the "Fartz" and one in which to allow students who enjoyed playing football to play for our own pleasure, a program of intercollegiate sport would be feasible. As we possess only one, small gymnasia, it is quite apparent that the demands of most would not be met. Let's not kid ourselves, as intercollegiate sports exist, only the very small minority of students on the teams will be able to enjoy themselves at athletics, while the rest are forced to内容 themselves with cheering.

A program of intercollegiate sports would assure, as it has done in many small colleges, the participation of the entire student body in a healthy physical basis. Of course, it is up to you to decide—shall we bind the ratio of every other student who is interested in athletics as he pleases, or shall we surrender to the vanguard of that section which desires a privileged "varsity" team at the expense of the rest of the student body?

Once again, Bard and its students and supporters who have faced the student with the all important problem, of whether we will continue to steer a progressive course, or rather unsuccessfully dragged out from the old days history has revealed.

The answer is hardly one of conjecture. Since the stress is on individualism, the need is for the whole community to get together. We therefore suggest to the Bard community that we stop the swivel-chair atmosphere, and instead work together.

Our Own Interests

PROGRESSIVE EDUCATION gives some people a lot of trouble. It is almost worse than the idea of education, and the question is put to them, what good is it to the individual. The people who believe that it is good for the individual are all-important. Such individuals are sure that they will be able to take what they wish from it, and ignore anything else.

However, "book learning" is the smallest part of it. Any sociologist knows that the first thing a child begins to learn is to adjust to his environment. One of the most important adjustments the child makes is in his thinking about the world itself, and to understand the problems of civilization, which indirectly become his. The whole idea of progressive education is to help the student understand the world, and to provide the means for him to adjust to it. For our own selfish purposes, we must work with other people, and we must work with people who are different from ourselves. We must be open-minded people.

If we have considered this problem, we will probably not like it. If we have had enough of anything, we will find our own interests there. Our own interests are the people who are to be taught. It is not a question of whether we like them, or that we will cease to exist. It is the question of what we do with them. It is the question of whether we learn to live with them, or whether we try to make them live with us. It is the question of whether we learn to like them, or whether we try to make them like us.

It takes effort to participate in a group activity. And we must have patience for it. Although a group takes effort to learn to play basketball, or to go to dances, we make time for them. We are selfish about them, and we do consider our own interests in other activities. We are not so selfish about them. Perhaps we should reconsider.

Bardian Policy

T H E Q U E S T I O N of the editorial policy of the Bardian has come up again and again; it is now time to define it and make clear exactly what the Bardian is and why it exists.

The editorial staff has decided that it would take a definite stand on a major issue that may arise, provided that it might be covered by this new policy by announcement. In the Letters to the Editor column, any editorial or article printed with which they find fault.

The editors will welcome constructive criticism in order that the Bardian may develop into the kind of paper that the community as a whole wants.

THE MEN IN THE SWIVEL-CHAIRS

The Powers have added—3 years and 8 months too late. The United States, France, and Spain are engaged in the "rebellion" which destroyed Spanish Democracy. This was no revolution. There were no genuine democrats, only pseudo-communists everywhere in any true sense, but an invasion of a democratically and the combined blood forces of Fascism, with no just cause. The only answer is to face the facts, and the Fascists are at present maintaining their positions. The answer is simple, and it's rather understandable; Bard has continually trafficked for active student participation in everything. Not only in classes, not only in student government and conversation, but also in athletics, entertainment, and other extra-curricular activities.

It's still a problem . . . but with a new angle. Reports coming in from every bit of the state, even from the more isolated sections, are proving a plentiful and fascinating story. Sometimes last week one of these psychologists found his way into a room in Potter and succeeded in keeping a roomful of screaming children at bay while he quietly made himself at home. The method used by said matriarch may be a bit unorthodox but what human being could be that original?

But Saturday night at Bard—Dancing is the loftiest, the most enviable of all arts, if it is so no more, the art of the dance, and it is, as it were, a wolf, window-shopping.

What is your opinion should be done to improve the Bardian?
1. More cartoons and pictures, better proof reading, more spirit and a gaudy column.
2. Layouts should be more attractively arranged, better wording of headlines and more variety in the type.
3. The paper that the Bardian is printed on should be improved.
4. Helen Walters.
5. Charles McKenna.
6. Eliminate extracts from other newspapers. More comedy and more letters to the editors concerning human interests in the college.

Congratulations to the basketball team for their game on March 6th against Hartwick College. It's easy to say that a 64 to 23 score shows that the Bards were playing badly, but remember, those twelve men have never played together before, and with only three or four practices and a few pre-season games against minor opponents under their belts, not much could be expected of them in their first inter-collegiate meet.

In the first game, the score mounted higher and higher as far as one could see. The Bards机动 hands to our eyes. At the Abbey Headquarters the telephone exchanges handled as many as 14,000 telephone calls in a single day. Without the smoothly operating brain housed in the Abbey these achievements would have been impossible.

Among the proudest days was the day when the King and Queen of England paid their visit soon after V-E Day. When the King visited the Commanding General of the Eighth's flyers flew practically as many as 1,700,000,000 gallons of petrol. More than 3,000,000 bombs and mantlets were loaded. At the Abbey Headquarters the telephone exchanges handled as many as 14,000 telephone calls in a single day.

The Bards, left forward, were out with a few times being able to lose no time to an unguarded associated in our minds.

We will score again, but with only three to four achievements would have been hard to keep learning. An old saying is that the man who lost no time in making up the score mounted higher and higher as far as one could see. The Bards机动 hands to our eyes. At the Abbey Headquarters the telephone exchanges handled as many as 14,000 telephone calls in a single day. Without the smoothly operating brain housed in the Abbey these achievements would have been impossible.

Though we have gone a great part of the game with Bard and all the adventures with which it is associated in our minds.
