Miss Garson Discusses Contemporary Art

The second in the series of Federal Art Project lectures at Bard, Miss Garson speaks in Alice Recreation Room last Monday evening. Alice Recreation Room had been reserved for Miss Garson's lecture. Alice Recreation Room has a unique and irresistible charm, in the original development of art, Miss Garson said, that whatever commercial aid had been given to the fine arts, there was an inherent tie between government and the arts.

The speaker discussed the invasion of art in America, which has been rended to the public by the Art Project. She pointed out that limitations placed on the administrations on the painting, sculpture, and work was "sensible" for use, or in, a word, to gain, to get in touch with the public.

The many divisions of the graphic arts which were illustrated with slides showing the admittance of Federal Project Work, Miss Garson concluded with her opinion that the W. M. A., Art Project has a unique and irresistible charm, in the original development of American art.

FOR A REGULAR ADMISSIONS MAN...

STUDENT reaction to the “three year plan,” as embodied in the letter to the dean, cannot be ignored as the petty complaints of a minority of students. The majority of the signers of the letter adds the necessity of the “three year plan” but is afraid of its results and the danger of “lost years” to those who wish. The second part of the letter, in the minds of most students, is to indicate that the student body, although few, are interested in the “three year plan,” feel that certain effects can and ought to be made to ameliorate possible undesirable effects. So perhaps the most the letter can be expected to accomplish is the fulfillment of its suggestions contained in its last half.

The purpose of this letter is to show the students at Bard the disadvantages of doing away with intercollegiate athletics, and to indicate the number of students who feel that this plan attempts to improve intercollegiate athletics. The purpose is to show the students at Bard the advantages of doing away with intercollegiate athletics, and to indicate the number of students who feel that this plan attempts to improve intercollegiate athletics.

The crux of their every argument is that the plan attempts to improve intercollegiate athletics, and that they feel that this plan attempts to improve intercollegiate athletics. It is quite possible that some students may not really know them or what dreams they had been misled. But they were told to remember that he had been a member of a team.

And after they had returned from wandering in search for material, they built their houses, they told that they had but brief moment to think of the problem of what to do, for after the solution of the problem of what to do, they were to be banished from the Province because of the lack of the desirability of what to do. And they were stunned, but quickly recovered, and began to plan the increase of the number of the students who had been banished, because they had satisfied the King and presented him with a richer kingdom.

It is true that the Representative of the King is the Representative of the King, and that he represents the interest of the King. It is also true that the Representative of the King represents the interest of the King, and that he represents the interest of the King.

of their season. The Bard quintet has been outclassed by the R.P.I. and naturally enough has completed its longest trip of the season. In a fast game characterized by unerring shooting on the part of the home team, the Bard College five chalked up its first victory of the season at the expense of the Alumni, by a tune of 38-32. The outstanding man on the floor was Dan Buckley, high scorer, who amassed thirty-six points. However, the entire team functioned smoothly as a unit, and the playing of Willett Stearns and Russ Siodi did much to help.

The last period was the feature of the game, thirty-six points being tallied between the two teams. Rutledge made sudden shots,补了13中的空。然而两队的进攻都处于停滞状态。此外，塔勒的防守也起到了很大作用。

Informal Saturday Dance Proves Success; Red Hook Supplies Girls

The first of the new informal dances, held at Bard on Saturday night, proved itself a for greater success than its sponsors anticipated, as was evidenced by the overflow crowd which descended on the limited space of Alice Recreation Room. Besides those on campus who had signed up for the occasion, many men without guests and women with numbers in hand attended. Most of the visiting girls, it was learned, were from Rhinebeck, from which town the feature band, planned for next week, will come.

Plan Second Affair

Mrs. John Parsons, Mrs. James Frauentheller, and the Community Life committee, all pleased with their first dance, are now making plans for future ones. Because of freshman from week-end, there may be no informal affair until the week-end before vacation. In view of the fact that the Bard Theatre is giving a major production over that time, the committee is planning to stage a second informal dance in the art studio immediately after the Friday evening play performance.

The third informal will probably be two weeks after vacation, using the larger facilities at one of the fraternity houses.

TO SHOW MANKIND FILM

Arrangements have been made for the special engagement next Monday night, at 5:45 and 9:30, of "The Human Adventure," an eight-reel talking picture, sketching the rise of man from savagery to civilization. It was announced by the Manager of Albee Recreation Room.

The picture was produced by the Oriental Camera of the University of Chicago under the scientific supervision of the late Dr. James Henry Breasted, noted historian and archaeologist. Two separate trips were made from Chicago to the Near East to film the men, more than three years in the making.

crossed income from student fees, no funds were available for essential development in several areas.

The Annual, Recreation, Sociology and Psychology Divisions, at the present time, have no use instructor. Further it is strange, to find that the faculty lack sufficient interest and ability to carry through our program. Money must be available for visiting deans, for making necessary changes. As the student body, this situation will become more acute and troubling, but because we have had almost no visiting lecturers, it is, commonly acknowledged that there is need for improvement and enlargement of the physical plant. For instance, at present the college has no place in which to hold a student convocation and almost no facilities for entertainments.

While we fully realize that the Three Year Plan is a measure adopted to carry the college through a difficult period, we see the dangers of its becoming a permanent policy. In three years, many modifications are made. Bard will have a far different complexion. The college must have a final solution to the present financial situation if it is an endowment fund. We wish to emphasize that the college community, the administration, and the trustees must all recognize the problem and mature to it.

We are glad not to have been damaged irreparably, and we are thankful for the limited space of Albee Recreation Room. Besides those on campus, many men without guests and women with numbers in hand attended.
