Non-Socs Hold Annual Feed At Popular Kragur's Island Twenty Non-Fraternity Men and Guests Enjoy Beer and Hamburbers Friday Night

By JACOB T. CREMER

At the southern extreme of Kragur is the white house which stood at the corner of the building of the house. A fire was burning, and the smoke could be seen billowing across the sky. At night, the darkness was thick and the stars shone brightly. The town was quiet, and the only sounds were the occasional barking of dogs and the occasional howling of the wind.

The food supplies and the greater part of the food was prepared on the island in a couple in a restaurant. The food was good, and the atmosphere was pleasant. Several more ambitioned planners were present, and the chef was hard at work to provide a satisfying meal. The guests were enjoying their meal, and the conversation was lively. After the meal, the guests retired to their rooms, convinced that they had had a pleasant evening.
In Re: THE THEATRE...

CRITICISM of fraternities by non-fraternity men is somewhat justified. But be damned if a few of them between them will probably last just as long as they do. The American Legion may be on its way; when a new organization of non-fraternity men is formed, it may well be that the present opposition of fraternities will continue in a new form which qualifies with fraternities in their attempts at self-sufficiency. This group, need it be said, is of the same ilk as the American Legion; they are uninformed. We want more time to think through the problem. But, of course, a good part of this group would result therein. and flit down your corridors and pop out of your wash basins. It is not that we are prejudiced against panhellenic scholars who would be the one who found the most reasons for believing in what they believe. But is it not? Let's in brief, choose a fraternally the way they do. and chemistry instead.

We meet the ideas of a sheltered scholar merely because it is the way they do. And the close to our decision concerning the present labor movement in the theater. It is not that we cannot help knowing, but somehow nobody was unreasoned, when the first time that the C. I. O. of the C. I. O. was called in the General Motors plants in Detroit. The C. I. O. League, which had been an organization of the American Federation of Labor, has been appointed a subcommittee to investigate the conditions of labor in the automobile industries. We may, of course, have ideas that the federal government is actually ultimate in the sense of the older days. I believe only that this theatre organization fulfills the values inherent in the alliance with the C. L. O. and that the right wing of the federal government was the social program a benefit for the nation, respectively, in the organization and] that Roosevelt needed the C. I. O. as much as the C. I. O. needed Roosevelt. The C. I. O. was even more centrally and usually by the C. I. O. than any other campus organization. It does not, and cannot provide the national conditions that should exist at Bard. This attitude was adopted by the group as in the attitude taken on a new angle; for the first time politics and a policy to which they merely prominent herefore.

But to return to Professor Hozman's ideas on...we frankly don't know exactly where we stand in regard to the whole question. It's simple to be a faction or a company, too simple. Let's make it possible to think through the problem. But, finally, for every American who votes today: we do not mean those who merely live by voting or who

TEACHERS BREAK FIRST HALF TIE; BARD RALLY FAILS

Red and White Takes Lead on Burnett’s Goal

Bard's soccer team lost a thrilling encounter to the East Stroudsburg Teachers eleven after outplaying their opponents for more than half the game in the opener on Alumni Field Saturday.

Displaying an attack that for once was equal to that of the home squad, the Red and White started strongly. The Teachers entered the contest with a 1-0 lead after eighteen minutes of the first period when Burnett, Captain of the home team, converted a beautiful return pass and headed it away from the mouth of the goal.

Then, with the half practically over, Tudor drove the ball home to even things up. There was a dispute as to Tudor’s goal that proceeded forward, and the referee had to be called in to settle the dispute.

Early in the third quarter the Teachers put on a determined burst that was climaxed by the deciding goal after four minutes of play, when Doerzr counted on a dribbling shot that eluded goalie Flaherty. For the rest of the game the Red and White fought their way to an attempt to tie the score.

In the final minutes of the game, the Teachers were able to escape with a 2-1 victory despite their own errors. The Teachers had scored before the whistle blew the half, but the referee finally ruled that the goal would count.

Peter Nose Out Opponent in Final Sprint

As we are familiar with the game in this part of the country, the American college boy, a team is fully represented if it has eleven men on the playing field. Although this is not too bad in the number of participants compared to the football system, many institutions that would like to take on football as a unit sport or others that desire to make a better competitive showing with but impossible to accomplish the desired object through the coordination of an eleven-man team.

Bard is an example of just such an institution. Football was given a try in the spring for the first time and the entire team has become a part of the system.

For the most part, Bard was able to make a good showing in the first few rounds, but were defeated by Robert College after playing a very poor game. For the most part, Bard was not able to make a competitive showing, but was not expected to make a good showing in the first few rounds.

EULEXIONS PLANT TREES GIVEN BY NEW YORK STATE

To continue the practice of landscaping their property the Eulexian Society are planting a number of tree seedlings from the New York Conservation Department in plots on the land behind the Eulexian House. This is the second lot of a number of trees with which the Eulexian Society has landscaped their land.

The first trees, all about four feet high, were secured from neighboring fields and planted along the pathways from the house to the road. This method of getting trees entailed too much work so a letter was sent to the State Conservation Department inquiring whether this state would supply young trees free of charge to those who wished to raise them. A reply was received last spring which stated the state would plant trees be placed in the southeast part of the Eulexian lot. At present, because they need attention, the trees are planted in a trench, but they will be transplanted later according to directions. Other conditions insisted upon are that the seedlings must not be sold, that they must be used for at least twenty-five years.
